Trick or Treat!

Janine Teagues' second-grade class dressed up as idioms for the annual school Halloween party. Of course, kids being kids, some of them didn't understand the assignment and came "as themselves". Can you figure which is the correct animal hiding beneath each mask? Ignore the idioms that didn't bother to disguise themselves.

Janine turned off her porch light to signal that the candy had run out. Actually, she just wanted the rest of the candy for herself! She noticed that some of the candy had different appearances and started arranging them on napkins. It so happened that two of those napkins had the exact same set of candies. Can you find them? They may be oriented different or turned to the opposite side, so look closely!
